

Lithium batteries connected to FANUC products

1. Introduction

- Lithium batteries connected to FANUC products are not commercially available. It is imperative that you purchase from FANUC.
- FANUC's lithium batteries have a protection function that works to stop safely in the event of abnormal operation, but there is a possibility that commercial products do not have this protection function, and there is a concern that they will fail in dangerous mode.
- Therefore, FANUC cannot guarantee commercial products purchased by anyone other than FANUC.
- Therefore, when using a commercially available battery, please replace it with a genuine one.

2. About FANUC lithium batteries

- Lithium batteries sold by FANUC have a special protection function for use in FANUC products, and the protection function works in the event of an abnormality such as a short circuit between electrodes or an increase in ambient temperature, and the battery stops safely.
- Lithium batteries that are not made by FANUC can be purchased on the Internet, etc., but it is unknown whether they have the above-mentioned protection function, and there is a possibility of dangerous destruction such as fire.
- Also, if a lithium battery made by another company is connected, FANUC does not guarantee it.
